ENGLISH TRANSLATIONS OF IMPORTANT MEMOIRS OF FRENCH SOLDIERS

A LANDMARK NEW PUBLICATION

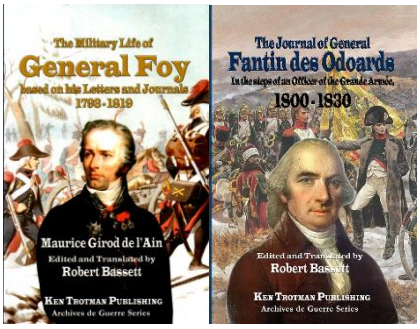

KT253.BROWN (R.) Transl. from F.Masson, S.SUMMERFIELD [Ed] F.DE MYRBACH [Illus.]

FORTUNES OF WAR 1792-1809: BEING THE RECOLLECTIONS AND MEMOIRS OF SOLDIERS ON CAMPAIGN.

182pp., 4to, illustrated throughout in colour by Felicien de Myrbach. 2026. This is a special limited edition of 150 copies, cloth bound & printed on specially chosen high quality paper. We are delighted to present this new version of the very famous work by Frederic Masson AVENTURES DE GUERRE. The original is one of the finest of 19th century illustrated studies of the Napoleonic Wars. Its quality lies both in the extremely spirited illustrations by de Myrbach which directly depict events from the memoirs, but also the quality of the memoirs themselves, all designed to show young soldiers caught up in the drama of military campaigns, studies full of military detail and epic survival. All have been carefully translated (by myself!) into English for the first time: Jean-François Goddard of the National Guard fighting a frontier war with the Austrians, The Baron De Selle De Beau Champ, caught up in the new technology of aerial warfare. Camus de Richemont fought the Ottomans in such a way as the Crusaders centuries before. Joseph Petit of the mounted Grenadiers of the Consular Guard, brushed shoulders with Napoleon himself at Marengo. Jean-Pierre Sibelet of the Chasseurs à Cheval witnessed Napoleon's greatest victory at Austerlitz. Lieutenant Niegolewski served with the Polish cavalry at the battle at Somosierra. Finally a musician, Philippe-René Girault, found himself trapped at Lobau in the middle of the battle. This is a book carefullt designed for collectors and enthusiasts of the Napoleonic Wars. £65.00

KT255.BASSETT (R.) Transl. THE JOURNAL OF GENERAL FANTIN DES ODOARDS: IN THE STEPS OF AN OFFICER OF THE GRANDE ARMEE, 1800-1830. 330pp., 19 maps. 2026. Louis Fantin de Odoards fought in many major battles including Austerlitz, Friedland, Corunna, Borodino, Kulm, Ligny & Wavre. He served in both the light & line infantry as well as the Grenadiers of the Guard. His important journal has the freshness of being written immediately after the events and thus full of the drama of the moment. £26.50

PREVIOUSLY LISTED:

Based on Foy's journal, often written in the immediate aftermath of the events he describes, this book gives an honest look into the mind of one of the few French generals to emerge from the Peninsular War with his reputation enhanced. This work also includes numerous letters and reports to provide not only a biography of Foy but a very different perspective of the Napoleonic wars. £26.50

Girod de L'Ain vividly immerses the reader in the scenes from his service with the 9th Light in Poland and Spain. He was wounded & captured at Altenburg in 1813, but rallied to Napoleon in 1815. This is military history and pure adventure at its best. £26.50

KT225.RAPP (J.) MEMOIRS OF GENERAL JEAN RAPP, FIRST AIDE-DE-CAMP TO NAPOLEON [with new introduction by Stephen Summerfield]. Slightly reworked facsimile of the original first English edition, but with a new introduction, 352pp., 5 additional plates, 16 additional maps. 2025. Rapp is one of the iconic figures of the Napoleonic Wars. In so many campaigns there he was in the tick of the action, wounded so many times – a tribute to his extraordinary bravery. When we first reprinted Rapp's memoirs it proved one of our more popular titles. Hence time to put it back into print.
